Description
I think this is a basic feature which JD should have so it's easier for dummies to backup/restore their stuff and they'll never ask again via support ;) Maybe use the same backup-format for the auto-backup so after a crash, users can easily load auto-backed up configs. MAYBE even add a kind of config-manager where users can load auto saved configs/linklists and see the date - this would be waay easier than the current method (go in JD folder, look for the files, ...).
