User reported: As you can see from the attached screenshots, sometimes the tray icon tooltip is cut off to the right, whereas at other times it looks fine. I can't figure out what triggers this but seems the truncation happens the very first time I hover over the tooltip after not using the app for a long time (it's running minimized to the tray).
Windows 7 Home Premium SP1 32-bit (fully updated) with Windows Basic theme at 1024x768 resolution (it's an old laptop with Intel 915GM graphics)
Also seems to happen the very first time I hover over the icon immediately after running the program.
